I am totally opposed to increasing the amounts of radio stations or tv stations that can be owned by one corporation. The media conglomerates have gotten so totally out of hand, and it certainly shows by the biased "reporting" we see on our news lately. If I want something factual - I've started to watching PBS because I feel like I can't get the truth from the giants. The public needs to be presented with all sides and come to their own conclusions, instead of being forced one viewpoint from 4 or 5 different networks. It's very sad and very scary that for the first time, I feel like I'm not getting truthful information. I'm getting cheerleading. Please don't let the conglomerates get any bigger - they're already having a VERY negative impact.
